Wanted, a bakery. Notwithstanding the fact that wood is from $12 to $16 a cord and coal $15 a ton, a bakery started at Wailuku, say with a coffee saloon and restaurant attachment, conductof by an experienced baker who could turn out German milk bread, French bread, graham and brown bread, good cakes and ples, etc. could not fail to prove a paying business. Of course areh bread could hardly be sold as cheap as in the states, but the people here would gladly pay the difference for a good, crisp, and well made bread such as many of them were accustomed to in the old country. At the risk of precipitating a boom, the News recommends, as a money making proposition the starting of a barkery at Walluku to furnish not only Walluku but also Kahului, Spreckelsville, Paia and Lahaina with a wholesome and toothsome supply of the staff of life.

The spirit of John Wesley and Martin Luther is abroad today in the domain of American politicss, and Bryan, whether worthy or unworthy, is the apostle of the movement. Many lifelong democrats will support McKinley rather than Bryan, believing that the hest interests of the country demand it. But so many new issues have arisen that new ideas will dominate the coming election. A sentiment is fast crystalizing that some sort of a change or reform is needed, and the mutterings of the ground swell are audible to the experienced car, Even California is trembling in the balance, and is as liable to go democratic as republican. This seems to be unfortunate at this juncture of our history, - but the people rule.

· Acting in the role of Universal Enlightener, the News desires to settle the contention as to whether there is a first class store in Kahului. There is. Although no evidence of it appears in the advertising columns of the NEWS, or of any other paper on the Islands, yet as a matter of fact there is a large and well equipped and stocked store at Kahului, managed by a clever and accommodating corps of salemen, with a shrew and experienced tmanager at their head; and goods are sold there about as cheap as anywhere on Maui. We know this is so, because we went there and saw it with our own eyes.

Today three hotels are running to crowded houses, and we are informed by a prominent business man of Walluku that another first class hotel is needed. The small landholders of Maui should be encouraged to plant more fruit trees, Figs, bananas, papayas and mangoes grow rapidly, and their fruit is a most wholesome luxury, yet it is quite true that there is not enough of these fruits raised for home consumption.

Maui schools need more money for repairs than is apparently available at present. This is a need which should not be denied, and sufficient funds should be supplied at once to put our school houses in good repair.

Life Imprisonment For Bresci.

Bresci, the unarchist, who, July 29, shot and killed King Humbert of Italy at Monza, was pronounced guilty at Milan and sentenced to imprisonment for life. An immense crowd of people gathered about the court from early morning, seeking admission to the court-room, where only a few places were reserved for There is no truth in the rumor the ticket-holding public. The hearthat the Valcano House, Frawali, is ing began at 9 o'clock. Bresci sat in the dock, calm and almost indifferent. His consul, Signor Martelli head of the Milan bar, and the tage of Judge Estee's presence in anarchist writer, Signor Merlino, made requests on various grounds for adjournment, which were refused. While the indictment, which was very long, was being read, Bresei very long, was being read, Bresci was apprently unmoved, and scanned the forces of the appliance without the faces of the audience without any signs of fear or effrontery. The indictment showed that the assassin indulged in incessant target practice, and that he prepared bullets so as to render them more danger-

Two wooden targets were placed on the table before the judges.

The public prosecutor demonstrated that Bresci was fully responsible for his acts, and that the latter premeditated the crime and had accomplices. After denouncing the anarchist theories which brought such fearful crimes, the public prosecutor denie I that Bresei had misery as an excuse, also asserting that he was not a man of impulse or a fanatic, but had a calm, cynical and obstinate mind, and that his aim was infamous. In conclusion, the public prosecutor asked for a verdict of guilty without extenuating circumstances.

Signor Merlino said he only wished to do his duty. He defended the prisoner on the ground that anarchy had inspired the crime. All parties, he declared, had their regicides, beginning with Judith. He asked that those in whose hands the prisoner's fate lay would not act in a spirit of Dr. Emerson and F. J. Lowrey vengeance, but of justice. He claimed have been appointed a committee of extenuating circumstances for the accused man. Bresci escaped with life imprisonment, as that penalty is the most severe which can be imposed under the laws of Italy for murder, on which charge the anarchist was tried. It was at first believed Bresci would be tried on the charge of treason, in which case the penalty would have been death.

The penalty of death has been abolished in Italy, and the regicide will be condemned to perpetual labor, but before beginning his toil he will be confined in a cell for 10 years. the shriners, 250 strong, will come It is a feurful punishment! During those 10 years of solitude not even a priest can visit Bresci, plicated in the murder of Chang Jo, not even the murmur of a prayer can break the stillness, all occupation nary hearing at Hilo on Saturday is prohibited, and no printed matter of any form ever reaches the eyes of the prisoner, who is not even allowed to talk sloud to himself. The guardians are forbidden to make any noise, and this miserable mortal receives his food through a little slidmen for grand and petit jurice at ing door in his cell, without even the coming term of the United States seeing the person who brings it. Time loses its value under such conditions; hours, days, months, years go by without record.
